The City of Early is located on the northern edge of the rolling Texas Hill Country. The residents of Early enjoy the good life of small-town America with easy access to metropolitan amenities. Its city limits bordered by the beautiful, tree-lined banks of the Pecan Bayou, the friendly community of Early sits at the heart of an eight-county retail trade area that includes more than 100,000 people.

Early and the surrounding areas offer a variety of outdoor recreational activities, health services, business and educational opportunities, shopping conveniences and church denominations.

And when it's time to have fun, Early's the place to be with comfortable year-round temperatures custom made for lazy days at Lake Brownwood, a round of golf, or a leisurely hike through Lake Brownwood State Park. White-tail deer, dove, quail, turkey and some of the fattest largemouth bass await the avid sportsman or the weekend warrior.

Tourist and conventioneers will find Early a perfect spot for their next trade show, family reunion or special event. Sister city of Brownwood with county museums, shopping, coliseum and meeting facilities close by. Visitors can rest easily with more than 700 area motel accommodations offering convenient, comfortable and affordable lodging.
